Cantonese Army Turned Back by Northern Army

General Pai Uses Waterway West of Shanghai Joining With Main Force and Capturing Chuchow—Chang Promises To Protect Foreign Lives and Property.

Shanghai, Feb. 8 (AP).—The shadow of the war God receded somewhat from Shanghai today as the city received reports that the Cantonese army had been turned back by defending forces under the northern General Pai Pao-Shan, and was left in retreat 200 miles away.

The result has been that the proposals for neutralization of the international settlement here and foreign plans for defense of the city in case of emergency became less pressing questions.

Using the waterway west of Shanghai as his means of transportation, General Pai, one of the leaders of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang's forces, joined his troops with the main northern force in the Yenchow region Then, as the right wing of the northern army, he attacked, capturing Chuchow, formerly held by the nationalists, and permitting the entire line to advance.

The Nationalists retreated to Changshan, near the Kiangsi province border, retaining only a few miles of Chekiang province territory. The southern push of the northerners is already threatening Changshan.

The nationalist militarists are in conference at their base at Nanchang, approximately 150 miles west of the present battlefront. It could not be learned whether Chiang, commander-in-chief of the Cantonese armies, and his Russian advisers, Galens, were attending. Last reports regarding Chiang were that he was ill at the Kuling sanitorium, near Kiukiang, while mail from Hankow reported that Galens was in the hospital there suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Chang Promises Protection.

Peking, Feb. 8 (AP).—Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian dictator and generalissmo of the armies which are fighting the Cantonese, made a bid for the favor of foreign powers today when on behalf of the northern military forces he issued a statement pledging protection of all foreign lives and property in the realm of the Peking government.

Marshal Chang promised that the Peking government would maintain its credit obligations but warned that "we expect the powers to respect our public opinion and sovereign rights so that the Chinese may be freed of fear of possible invasion from the outside while the powers may be freed of apprehension over anti-foreign movements."

The northern generalissimo declared his military forces were operating only against Bolshevism and that there is room for negotiations for all other except Bolsheviks.

He outlined an extensive idealistic program of national reforms, preservation of national sovereign rights, restoration of order, extension of education facilities and plans the cooperation of capital and labor. Extension of communication facilities and plans for judicial reform also were included.

Boy Breaks Leg In Two Places

Garwood Cline, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard G. Cline of No. 75 East Strand, was removed in the city ambulance to the Benedictine Hospital Monday afternoon with his leg broken in two places. The youth, with several others, was spending the evening last Friday tobogganing on the toboggan slide at Golden Rule Inn and had made several trips down the big slide. On the eighth trip down as the toboggan struck the icy surface of Mirror Lake it swerved and Cline and another youth were buried off.

Cline picked himself up and complained of pain in his leg but did not realize it had been broken. Later he returned home where he told his parents he had injured his leg but that it was not broken, and his mother did what she could to ease the pain with soothing applications.

The leg gradually became worse and began to swell and on Monday it was decided to call in Dr. Frank L. Eetman, who advised that the youth be removed to the Benedictine Hospital where an X-ray was taken which showed that the leg, between the knee and the ankle, had been broken in two places.

WORLD WAR ENFORCEMENT OF "DRY" LAW MORE DIFFICULT

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 8 (AP).—Enforcement of the Volstead act would be made more difficult in New York, under terms of a bill introduced in the legislature today by Assemblyman Edward P. Doyle, Democrat of Kings.

The measure is designed to make it unlawful for any peace officer to order premises for search and seizure in enforcement of the prohibition laws without first obtaining a court order.

20 Million Will Hear Coolidge

Biggest "Hook up" Will Broadcast President Coolidge's Talk On Washington Before Joint Session of Congress on February 22.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Through the efforts of thousands of behind-the-scenes mechanical workers, paid to "keep the air clear," one-sixth of the population of the United States and many thousands in several foreign countries on February 22 will be able to hear every word of what the present occupant of the White House has to say of the first President.

One hundred and thirty years or so since George Washington held his post of honor, Calvin Coolidge will address, through 37 radio stations, more than 20,000,000 listeners when he speaks before the joint session of Congress at its observance of Washington's birth 195 years ago. It will be the biggest "hook up" it is said, that has ever heard a President or anybody else speak.

The vivid contrast of the present day with the day when Washington's communication with his people was through a few small newspapers of a purely local circulation and through letters to governor's brings to the fore the consideration of the many skilled persons hidden from the radio audience whose duties will be to keep Mr. Coolidge's voice moving clearly along the gigantic network of wire and air lanes.

Trained Electricians Busy.

Trained to the last degree in the eccentricities of electricity, they will be called upon for the full extent of their knowledge when the President goes before the microphone. And as the vast audience settles in its easy chairs, there will be little to indicate the feverish activity behind the scenes necessary to begin the broadcasting and transmission and keep it up smoothly for the estimated hour and a half of the program.

Scarcely more than a hundred men will be engaged in the actual broadcasting over the hookup but these men must be alert to the slightest fault in the mechanism they are engaged in watching.

However, the number of telephone company employes who will be occupied in watching the lines for wire trouble, "stepping up" the weakening current at various points and facilitating transmission will run into the hundreds, while an even larger force divided into "road crews," will be sent out at intervals along the line where they can be reached instantly for any repair work found necessary during the course of the program.

Voice Goes on Wire First.

The President's voice will be put on the wires in Washington and carried to New York to the studio of the National Broadcasting Company. Here it will be taken off the Washington wire, sent through labyrinth of coils and wires, magnified, clarified and redistributed to stations over the country outside of New York city.

The program begins at 12:30 p. m. eastern standard time. London will receive the President's words over a special short wave transmission from stations KDKA at Pittsburgh and WGY at Schenectady.

Report Liberals Hoist White Flag

Managua, Feb. 8 (AP).—After an air attack with bombs and machine guns by two airplanes attached to the conservative army of President Diaz, the Liberal forces which captured the town of Chinandega Sunday are reported to have hoisted the white flag last night. The report was brought back by William Brooks, a native of New Orleans, who with Lee Mason carried out the air raid, in coordination with an advance by the Conservative troops aided by reinforcements sent from Managua Sunday night.

Brooks said the conservative troops re-entered the town, parts of which were still smouldering from the fire which destroyed a large area.

Conservative officials expressed the belief that the Liberals, scattering to nearby towns, probably would return in the next day or so to continue the battle. By this time, it was said, further conservative reinforcements were expected to be on the scene.

Hornell, N. Y., Feb. 8 (AP).—George H. Dore, 81 years old, holder of the United States congressional medal of honor for bravery exhibited in the battle of Gettysburg during the Civil War, dropped dead in the bath room of his home here today. Mr. Dore was a member of the Steuben county board of supervisors. The congressional medal was awarded him for the daring capture of a Confederate flag.

Oporto Revolt In Full Swing

Serious Damage and Hundreds of Casualties at Oporto Following Bombardment—All Civilian Population Reported in Arms.

London, Feb. 8 (AP).—Not only is the Portuguese revolutionary movement still in full swing in Oporto, where it began last week, but newspaper reports from Lisbon are that virtually all the civilian population there is in arms.

Other uncensored dispatches reaching London indicate that the movement, at first confined to an insurgent garrison at Oporto, has assumed serious proportions, with the revolutionaries clamoring for restoration of the Constitutional rights which they allege were suppressed by President Carmona when he assumed the dictatorship after a military coup last spring.

When word of the insurrection at Oporto, which was not entirely unexpected, reached Lisbon several days ago, President Cormona, in his capacity as war minister, hastened to the district to organize his forces, confident that the revolt would be short lived. But, in spite of elaborate precautions, reinforcements and actual bombardment of the revolutionary stronghold, dispatches say that the insurrectionists have refused to surrender.

Only meagre, and sometimes garbled, reports have come out of Portugal the last few days because of the censorship; they seem to agree that the revolution has not been without some heavy fighting, that serious damage was done to Oporto by the bombardment and there have been hundreds of casualties.

The Lisbon correspondent of the Daily Express, announcing that nearly all the civilian population of Lisbon is enthusiastically supporting the movement, says its success "seems certain."

Agents Shatter Narcotic Ring

Broadway Night Life Cloak Under Which Syndicate Distributed Drugs to Every Part of Country—Twelve Face Arraignment.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Ten men and two women today faced arraignment in connection with the shattering of what federal agents term one of the largest wholesale narcotic rings ever discovered in the country.

Broadway night life was the cloak under which the syndicate distributed drugs to every part of the country, federal agents said. Hunt for other members of the ring continued in New York and other cities while authorities attempted to build up evidence against the twelve already under arrest.

Andree DuBois, 24, an actress and former hostess in a New York night club, and Jack Rose, whose real name, federal agents say, is Jack Solomon, of this city, are under heavy bonds in Washington in connection with the activities of the syndicate. They were arrested in Washington when federal men are alleged to have purchased $1,750 worth of morphine from Rose.

The arrests in New York were made shortly after the pair was taken into custody in Washington. Peppy Dellas, said to have headed the syndicate with Rose, was one of the first to be taken here.

NEWBURGH PATROLMAN OVERCOME BY SMOKE

Patrolman Harry Shaw of Newburgh was taken to St. Luke's Hospital early Sunday morning due to suffocation by smoke when he entered the Shaw home at Broadway and West street, which was on fire, after notifying the Highland Steamer Company.

The patrolman was not in a critical condition and was permitted to go to his home after receiving treatment.

Shaw was seen by a citizen named Palmer as he entered the house, which was not badly damaged by the small fire among some articles of clothing, but was not seen after that. When the firemen arrived Palmer aided them in battling the fire and found Policeman Shaw unconscious lying on the floor.

Think Death at Bloomington Due To Alcoholism

Belief That Peter Ferris, Found Dead by Sheriff Rice, Sampled Too Much Liquor, Probably Made on Premises—Mystery of Still Remains Unsolved.

It has practically been determined that Peter Ferris, who was found dead at the Mahoney place in Bloomington Saturday, died of alcoholism and that his death was not due to outside violence. Ferris, who had gone to the Mahoney place to work a few days before, was found dead in bed Saturday by Sheriff Rice, Sergeant Cunningham, of the State Troopers, and Coroner Conner, who had been summoned by Mr. Mahoney.

At first it was thought he might have died from carbon monixide gas from a gasoline engine in the house used to operate a water system, but this theory has been dicarded.

No Marks of Violence.

Mahoney's unusual actions at first caused the authorities to conduct a careful examination but there were no marks of violence disclosed on performing an autopsy. How long Ferris had been dead is not known and Mr. Mahoney cannot tell. He first attempted to get a doctor on Friday and again on Saturday he came to Kingston and attempted to get a doctor but was advised to get a doctor at Bloomington. Dr. L. G. Rmyph was sent for but was unable to get in the house. On the first trip to the place Mahoney was unable to produce a key to admit the sheriff, but on the sheriff's second visit he produced a key. It was while investigating the death that a still was found in the cellar.

Still Furnishes Clue.

Presence of this still which indicated liquor was being made, provided a clue to the authorities both to Mr. Mahoney's actions and also to the death of Mr. Ferris.

Indications are that Ferris had sampled too much liquor, probably made on the premises, and died from acute alcoholism. He was known as a man who drank heavily at times.

Still Ownership a Mystery.

The ownership of the still remains a mystery which probably will be unsolved, since the dead man cannot deny that he was the operator.

The scene of the death and the place where the still was found is in the house located some distance from Castor's Hotel corner at Bloomington, on the dirt road leading past the church to Creek Locks. The place has changed hands frequently in the past few years, at times being run as a tea room and at other times as a house of questionable character.

Suggests Placing Debt on Counties

Governor Smith Would Relieve Towns of Their Share of the Cost of Grade Crossing Elimination—Favors Passage of Mastick Resolution.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 8 —(AP).Towns will be relieved of their share of the cost of grade crossing elimination if a recommendation of Governor Smith is adopted by the legislature.

The governor favors passage again this session of the Mastick resolution which would submit a constitutional amendment to the voters next November. The amendment would put the local burden of 25 per cent of the cost on the counties.

In a special message last night, the governor pointed out that grade crossing removals paid by the $300,000,000 bond issues are being hindered by conflicting statutes and other agencies. He suggested that the present laws be brought together and urged the need of a comprehensive program to cover the entire state outside of New York city.

Fifty-two upstate crossings of a total of 140 were abandoned last year, the governor explained, because statutory limitations of debt forbade payment of costs by the communities involved.

"The eliminations considered in the upstate territory," he said, "were purposely chosen to cover crossings located in both rich and poor towns in order to determine how workable the present law might be. Past hearings have indicated that in strictly rural districts no great desire exists to proceed with this work, but that such localities preferred to spend their money for improvements of more local value."

The governor declared that "until the poorer towns are aided to provide their 25 per cent of the costs further elimination will have to be made in the more wealthy districts."

"Operations during 1927," he added, "will be largely confined to territories adjacent to New York city, Buffalo, Rochester and the larger cities."

Cops Now Have Own Gymnasium

Was First Equipped Under Crane Administration; Taken Away Under Block Regime and Restored Under Dempsey Administration.

The members of the Kingston police force again boast of their own gymnasium, which is now in readiness for active use. The gymnasium was first equipped during the Crane administration when members of the police force asked the police board to establish a gym in the city hall.

At that time the room formerly occupied by the board of health before it moved to the room across the corridor was fitted up for a gym as it had not been used for any purpose for several years, and the equipment consisted of a punching bag, shower baths, rowing machine, medicine ball, basketball and other regular gym equipment.

Several years ago under the Block administration it was decided to do away with the gym on the grounds that it was not used by the members of the force to any extent, and the room was turned over to the physicians of the city in which to hold meetings. A few meetings were held, and later the room was turned over to the board of education for use for the probation officer.

At a recent meeting of the police board it was decided to again reopen the room as a gym for the policemen, which has now been done.

Dr. M. J. Michael Will Not Resign

A story that Dr. Myron J. Michael intends soon to resign as superintendent of schools was denied by Dr. Michael today to The Freeman and he pronounced the story to be "absolutely false."

Dr. Michaels connection with the Kingston city school system for more than thirty years, first as principal of the old Kingston Academy and then as superintendent of schools, together with his numerous civic activities have made him an outstanding figure in the educational, civic and religious life of the city, and his severance from the schools of the city at any time would be regarded in no other light than as a calamity.

Detective Kills Alleged Slayer

Gunmen Wanted in Connection With the Killing of Policeman Masterson Located at Adirondack Camp—One Killed, Another Captured.

Old Forge, N. Y., Feb. 8 (AP).—Walter Tipling, said to be wanted in New York city for shooting a policeman, was shot and killed in an Adirondack camp near here early today when he tried to escape from detectives who had captured him last night.

Tipling, according to reports reaching here this morning, tried to escape from a cottage in which he was held captive and in the attempt shot and slightly wounded Thomas J. Martin, New York city detective.

Tipling was shot by Detective Thomas J Martin of New York. After Martin with other officers had broken into the camp, Tipling answered their command to give himself up with gunfire, wounding Martin in the right wrist. Martin left the camp and going to the outside, fired three times through a window. One of the shots struck Tipling in the temple, killing him instantly.

Peter Seiler, 20, who was with Tipling, was captured in another room of the camp when Detective Thomas Brady pounced upon him and knocked a revolver from his hand. The gun, Seiler said later, was one taken from Patrolman Masterson following the shooting in New York.

With Detectives Frank Tied and Stephen Donohue, also of New York city and two state troopers, Martin and Brady surrounded the camp shortly after daybreak this morning.

Martin and Brady broke open the door and entering called upon the two men to surrender. Tipling answered the demand from another room with a revolver shot which caused a wound in Martin's right wrist. Both detectives left the building, Martin going to a rear window which opened to the room occupied by Tipling. Then he fired through the window. Tipling returned the fire and Martin sent two more bullets into the room.

When no more shots came from the camp the detectives and troopers entered. Brady going into another room ran into Seiler, who he said, had his gun drawn. In the mixup the gun was knocked to the floor and Seiler was overpowered. The other officers found Tipling dead with a bullet in his temple.

Search of the rooms revealed two watches and two watch chains, which the officers said, Seiler admitted were part of the loot taken in the New York holdup in which Masterson was slain. Five watches were taken in the holdup Seiler is credited with stating to the officers. The other three, it was said, went to two other gunmen who figured in the New York holdup.

The four New York detectives arrived here yesterday and asked assistance of State Troopers in the search for Tipling and Seiler. They had been tipped, they said, that the men were occupying a summer camp near here.

With the aid of the troopers, they traced the men to Camp Utica, owned by George Peterson of Forest Hills, L. I. Last night they planned the raid which this morning resulted in Tipling's death and Seiler's capture.

Coroner James Graves of Herkimer county, was expected here this afternoon to conduct an inquest. It is was not believed that he would hold the police criminally responsible for Tipling's death, inasmuch as reports of the shooting indicate that it was a case of self defense.

Was Wanted in New York.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Walter Tipling, who was shot to death at an Adirondack camp early today by detectives, was wanted in New York for fatally shooting Patrolman James Masterson, who interrupted a holdup a week ago.

According to records at police headquarters, Tipling was at various times known as "Edward Hughes", "Harry Delaney" and "Robert Burns". His record dates back to 1913, when he served a term at Elmira for burglary. He also served four years in Sing Sing for felonious assault and another year in the same place for burglary.

Shoots His Friend And Kills Himself On Golf Links

Andrew Jankowski Flares Into Rage and Draws a Pistol Threatening to Kill Wife—Friend Leaps Between Them and Is Shot Down.

Los Angeles, Feb. 8 (AP).—The story of a tragedy on the golf links was woven today into the annals of the royal and ancient game in Los Angeles as police sought to learn why Andrew Jankowski, Toledo, Ohio, automobile dealer, yesterday shot and probably fatally wounded his old friend and business partner, Cornelius J Callahan, on the Bellevue Club links, and then killed himself.

Mrs. Jankowski, who was with them in a threesome and who witnessed the shooting, was under the care of a physician after having become hysterical and unable to tell a coherent story.

Police believe Jankowski was seized with a fit of temporary insanity, precipitated by an argument over the golf cards

Mrs. Jankowski told Deputy Sheriff Stensland her husband flared into a rage, cried out that he was going to kill her and drew a pistol Callahan, she said, leaped between her and her angered husband at the critical moment and dropped with the bullet in his head.

"You've killed the best friend I ever had," Mrs. Jankowski screamed.

Jankowski then turned his weapon on himself and sent a bullet into his temple.

Mrs. Jankowski's story was corroborated in part by Edward Wells, a caretaker of the course, who said he saw Jankowski kill himself.

Three Big Roads Buy W. & L. E.

New York Central Nickel Plate and Baltimore and Ohio are In Control of Wheeling and Lake Erie and Western Maryland Systems.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—The New York Central, Nickel Plate and Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today were in control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Western Maryland systems—terminal keys to a midwestern transportation system.

Disclosure that the New York Central, the Nickel Plate and B. and O. had each acquired about one-sixth interest in the three classes of Wheeling stock and that the B. and O. holds 35 per cent of the outstanding Western Maryland stock, equivalent to controlling interest, was viewed in Wall Street today as a death blow to the proposed fifth eastern trunk line system of L. F. Loree of the Delaware and Hudson.

Announcement yesterday of the operations of the roads allied against the Loree plan also revealed the mysterious story behind the technical corner in Wheeling and Lake Erie and the sensational advance in stock of that road and Western Maryland in the last few weeks.

Wall street today awaited approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the Wheeling and Lake Erie plan to increase its issue of common stock to end the corner that has resulted in loss of millions to bear traders recently.

The alliance of New York Central, Nickel Plate and B. and O., providing that the Wheeling and Lake Erie and the Western Maryland will be "neutral terminals," established a gigantic network of railroad lines reaching from Norfolk to Montreal on the Atlantic Seaboard, with outlets on the Great Southern Lake Ports and with entrance to the traffic gateways to the west.

Through the maneuver the New York Central secures alternative routes into the union coal fields over the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and into the non-union fields over the Wheeling and Lake Erie.

2,000 MINERS OF LEHIGH VALLEY COMPANY IDLE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Feb. 8 (AP).—Three thousand mine workers employed at six collieries of the Lehigh Valley Coal company were idle today over a controversy relating to the payment of yardage All other collieries of the company are in operation. The idle mines are the Broadwell, Maltby, Westmoreland, Prospect, Henry and William A.

The trouble is due to an alleged reduction in the price of yardage from $4.70 to $3.24 at the Henry colliery which has been idle since last week. Failure to adjust the trouble resulted in a meeting of the general grievance committee last night. An effort to call a general strike of all Lehigh Valley Coal Company collieries failed.

The strike according to Rinaldo Cappellini, president of district one, United Mine Workers, is not authorized by the union.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

GEORGE'S GIFTS

These were the gifts that were given to George when he was awakened by the three little men who roused him by playing to him on their brass trumpets.

They had heard that George liked to be generous to himself, and that he liked to allow himself plenty of sleep, and that he wished he had more than one mouth so he could eat more than he now could.

Oh, he wanted a great deal, and he felt as though he would like to be ever and ever and ever so generous to himself.

George didn't take any time when the little men told him to get out of bed.

"We're going to help you," they said.

"And they led him to the most amazing place he had ever seen in his life. It was filled with everything.

Not just toys and animals and brownies and people, but with extra noses all laid on neat shelves and extra legs and arms and mouths and eyes. And of course there was a pantry filled with no end of food, and there were toys and animals as well.

"You are ambitious," they said to George, "and we want to help you.

"So we're going to give you an extra nose. Then you will be able to discover where all the wild strawberries are to be found and you will smell an orchard miles away.

"We are going to give you an extra set of arms and then you can reach for things at the table without being noticed for your usual two arms can stay in place.

"We are going to give you two mouths for then you can eat twice as much.

"And we are going to give you two extra ears so you can hear more than others and can even tell when the neighboring town is having a band concert or a circus parade.

"We are going to give you an extra brain for thinking up more things you might want, and we are going to give you two extra eyes for seeing more things you otherwise might not see and which you might wish to have.

"We are going to give you two extra legs so you can get to places much more quickly and thence see and enjoy so much more.

"We are going to give you twice the amount of time for sleeping so when you are called in the morning you need not pay even the slightest bit of attention for you will know you have the time again you have had in sleeping.

"Soon your family will realize this.

"We are going to give you twice the amount of time in which to play."

"Oh," said George finally, "this is almost too much."

"Oh no," said the little trumpet men, "only twice as much as most have. That can't be too much."

"No," agreed George, "I think that's all right."

"Good," said the little trumpet men, "we're so glad you agree.

"And now for fixing you up."

They put two extra arms just under where George's arms now were.

The put two legs alongside his other legs as he did not want to walk on all fours like an animal. They pressed something into his head which they said was an extra set of thoughts and they put on the additional ears and attached two more eyes, and one mouth right above the other.

They told him that he would find the sleeping time and the waking time would all be taken care of without any mistake.

Well, he took a look at himself in a long mirror.

He didn't look so strangely as he thought he might look.

Of course he looked unusual. But then that was all right. He was unusual. And how superior he would be with twice as much as any one else had just in his very own self.

Then the three trumpet men began to blow their trumpets again and these words came forth:

"Go on George, go on George, go on George. Now you can make use of everything."

Knew Where He Was

Sonny had disappeared from the yard where he had been playing. After an hour of frantic search he was discovered looking in a shop window far from home.

"Why, Sonny, whatever made you wander off like that?" asked his mother. "We were nearly frightened to death about you."

"There wasn't nothin' to be scared about," said Sonny. "Why, I knew right where I was all the time!"

OLD-FASHIONED DISHES

Corn is so well liked as a vegetable, in soup, scalloped, and here it is in

Corn Muffins. — Beat two eggs, add a tablespoonful of melted lard, a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and two cupfuls of corn meal. Add enough milk to make a thin batter. Grease muffin pans and pour in batter. Bake one-half hour.

Fresh Corn Soup.—Grate the corn from four or more ears, the amount depending upon the size of the family to serve. One-half cupful of grated corn will serve two. Cover the cobs with cold water and boil them for 20 minutes, drain the water and add to the grated corn with milk and seasonings. Cook for a few minutes until the corn is well cooked; adding butter and flour, a teaspoonful of each for a pint of soup. Serve hot, unstrained.

Fresh Corn Gems.—Two cupfuls of fresh-cooked corn put through the meat chopper or cut fine, one-half cupful of milk, two eggs, two cupfuls of flour, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and a tablespoonful of melted shortening. Bake 25 minutes in gem pans. Canned corn may be used with more milk for moisture.

Flummery.—Make a rich custard, using six eggs, one quart of milk, and sugar to taste. Scald one and one-half cupfuls of milk, add two ounces of gelatin which has been softened in a little cold milk. Whip one quart of cream, add one cupful of sugar, add the gelatin to the custard and, when well mixed and cool, the whipped cream. Pour into molds and cover with crushed macaroons. Flavor with vanilla.

The old-fashioned gingerbread is always a delightful dessert served hot with a marshmallow sauce.

Ginger Bread.—Take one cupful of molasses, one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of melted shortening, a half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of ginger, one egg, three cupfuls of flour, and lastly a cupful of boiling water in which a teaspoonful of soda is dissolved. Mix well and pour into a large shallow pan. Bake 40 minutes.

Chinese Dares Death to Provoke Riot

In an effort to anger British guards at Hankow into firing into the Chinese mob before barbed wire entanglements in the foreground, this Chinese fanatic leaped over the obstruction, stripped off his clothes, and hurled insults at the troopers. The soldiers remained calm and shoved him back into the throng.

Dogs That Don't Bark

The Siberian sledge dogs, which are reported to be very efficient in spite of the fact that many of them are on the verge of starvation from time to time, do not bark as do domesticated dogs. They have a manner of howling something akin to the wail. In the summer time they subsist on fish, but in winter they are hard put to it to get enough to eat.—New York Magazine.

N. Y. Telephone Spent 78 Millions To Enlarge System

Over Half a Billion Dollars Invested in System in Seven Years—New Buildings Started Include Exchange at Saugerties — Figures Show Strength of Business.

More than $78,000,000 was invested by the New York Telephone Company in 1926 to enlarge its system in New York state, northern New Jersey and a small portion of Connecticut, to care for the increased demand for service. This investment was for new or enlarged buildings, central offices, equipment, cables, poles, and added trunk lines between hundreds of central offices to carry the greater load of calls resulting from the installation of new telephones.

These facts are contained in a statement issued today by J. S. McCulloh, president of the New York Telephone Company, reviewing last year's telephone development. Mr. McCulloh says that since January 1, 1920, the telephone company has had to invest a total of $500,500,000 for construction to improve the service and enlarge its entire system to meet requirements for greater service. At the present time the service, by every test, is the best in its history and new service can be provided promptly in practically every part of the company's territory.

Approximately $12,000,000 of the 1926 investment went for necessary extensions of the systems in the upstate area which includes all of that part of New York state in which the New York Telephone Company operates, down to but not including Westchester and Rockland counties. Nearly $41,000,000 was spent in New York city and about 15,600,000 in northern New Jersey, the remainder being expended in Westchester and Long Island.

2,600,000 'Phones in Service.

A total of 174,200 telephones were added to the company's system which now serves 2,600,000 telephones. Of these, the upstate area has 483,557 telephones now in service, representing a gain of 28,302 during the year 1926. In the five boroughs of New York city there are nearly 1,520,000 telephones, while the New Jersey area has 425,943 telephones.

The volume of local calls handled in the company's entire territory increased during the year from approximately 9,558,000 daily to about 10,228,000 per day. Toll and long distance calls increased from 773,500 to 881,900 daily, a gain of nearly 15 per cent which reflects the growing use of toll and long distance service both for business and social purposes.

Business houses in particular installed new equipment and methods for meeting the increasing trend towards getting things done by telephone while the telephone company developed new apparatus and methods of operation which speeded up toll, long distance, and local service.

The company's building operations during the year resulted in the completion of 22 new telephone structures or additions to existing buildings which provides an additional floor area of over 1,500,000 square feet. Four of these buildings are in the up state area, twelve in New York city and six in New Jersey. The four new buildings or additions to buildings in the up state area are in Poughkeepsie, Rensselaer, Schenectady and Ithaca. The largest building completed is the new 33 story headquarters and central office building at 140 West street, New York city, which occupies an entire block and is the largest telephone structure in the world, housing approximately 7,000 workers.

New Building at Saugerties.

New buildings or additions started during the year total 17, seven of which are in the up state area, four in New York city and six in New Jersey. The new buildings started up state are a new building in Saugerties which will house a new central office there; a new six-story building in Syracuse which will be the headquarters for the Central Division and will also provide space for additional machine switching equipment for the city of Syracuse; a new building in Utica in which will be housed the machine switching equipment which is to be used in providing dial service for that city. Additions were started to telephone buildings in Auburn, Oneida, Batavia and Buffalo.

The 17 new buildings or additions, when completed, will add approximately 269,000 square feet of additional floor space. Because of the large construction required in recent years to meet the demand for more service, the telephone company has become one of the leading realty owners and renters in the country. It now owns 196 buildings and leases 373 others, with a combined floor area of nearly 9,000,000 square feet.

During the year 1926, three new machine switching offices were cut into service, these being located in Syracuse, Schenectady and Olean, making a total of eight machine switching offices in the up state area. Besides this a new manual central office was put in service in Poughkeepsie. There are now 47 buildings owned by the telephone company in the up state area and 137 which are leased for telephone purposes.

King George Opens Third Session of British Parliament—Speech Unusually Brief and Mainly About Chinese.

London, Feb. 8 (AP).—The third session of the present British Parliament, elected in 1924, was opened in state by King George with time honored ceremony today. Huge crowds lined the streets to see the royal procession. Queen Mary accompanied the king to Parliament for the ceremony.

The king's speech opening the session—actually a ministerial statement—was unusually brief and mainly devoted to the Chinese problems.

He explained that it had been deemed necessary to send to China an adequate force to protect British subjects, because of the happenings at Hankow and other places, but emphasized that it was the desire of the British people to "remove all grievances, to renew our treaties on an equitable basis and to place our future relations with the Chinese people on a footing of friendship and good will."

Foreign Relations Friendly.

"My relations with the foreign powers continue to be friendly," the King said. "The League of Nations has been strengthened and a further step taken toward the restoration of normal international relations in Europe by the entry of Germany into the league and her appointment to a permanent seat on the council of the league.

"In continuation of this policy, it was found possible at the end of last month to terminate the system of allied military control in Germany as set up by the treaty of Versailles, and to hand over to the league all questions affecting the military clauses of the treaty.

Situation in China.

"Continuation of the civil war in China and the anti-foreign and particularly anti-British agitation by which it is accompanied have caused me grave anxiety. In consequence of what happened at Hankow and in other places, my government felt it necessary to dispatch to the Far East a sufficient force to protect the lives of my British and Indian subjects against mob violence and armed attacks.

"But I earnestly desire a peaceful settlement of the difficulties which have arisen, and my government has caused proposals to be made to the Chinese authorities which should convince public opinion in China and throughout the world that it is the desire of the British people to remove all grievances, to renew our treaties on equitable basis and to place our future relations with the Chinese people on a footing of friendship and good will. My government will maintain our traditional policy of non-interference in the internal affairs of China."

Trade and Industry.

The King expressed pleasure over the encouraging signs of improvement in trade and industry and hopes those engaged in the industries would do their utmost to prevent arresting of the improvement by industrial strife.

The briefness of the king's speech was due partly to the government's decision to drop certain proposed measures from its program in hopes of making the parliamentary session as short as possible, the intention being it is understood, to adjourn in July or early August.

Suspend Graham And Rosenberg

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—The New York State Athletic Commission today suspended Charles (Phil) Rosenberg of New York, Bushey Graham of Utica, and their managers pending an investigation on Friday into the contracts for the match in which Rosenberg defeated Graham last week at Madison Square Garden. Rosenberg had forfeited the world's bantamweight championship by scaling 122½ pounds for this bout.

Chairman Farley of the commission declined to disclose details of the investigation but admitted some question existed as to "the honesty of the contract" entered into by Rosenberg and his manager, Harry Segal, with William J. Parr, Graham's manager. Graham, who weighed 117½ for the bout and was within the bantamweight limit, was understood not to have been involved in the contract situation.

The Commission meanwhile has adopted a "hands off" policy toward the match at Chicago February 24, between Tony Canzoneri of New York and Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., recognized in Illinois as the world's champion. The boxing golons took no action on a request from Taylor's manager to recognize Taylor as the champion in view of Rosenberg's forfeiture. They also declined to accept an offer from Canzoneri's manager, Sam Goldman, to fight any one the New York Commission nominates within 10 days after the Taylor match, providing Canzoneri won that.

The commission reinstated William Klein, Albany boxer, and suspended Ted Coolidge of Syracuse, for fouling Johnny Haystack of Binghamton, in a recent bout at Syracuse.

Senate Adopts Four Year Term

For Elected State Officers With Elections To Be Held at The Same Time as Presidential Elections—Strictly Party Vote.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 8 (AP).—The concurrent resolution for submission to a referendum of the people of the proposal for a four year term for elected state officers, with elections to be held at the same time as presidential elections, was adopted in the Senate today, 26 to 24. The division was strictly along party lines.

The resolution now goes to the Assembly for concurrent action which is virtually assured in view of the Republican majority in that chamber. With favorable action by the Assembly the proposal will go before the people in November, as it already has been approved by one Legislature.

Governor Smith and the Democratic minority in the Legislature have vigorously opposed the proposal insofar as holding state elections in presidential years. The Governor, in his annual message, urged that the proposed amendment provide for state elections in the even numbered years between presidential campaigns.

Majority Leader John Knight, Minority Leader Bernard Downing and Senator George R. Fearon, Republican, Onondaga, participated in the debate on the proposal. Senator Knight argued that presidential elections brought out a far greater vote than elections at other times, thereby making it possible for the wishes of a greater number of citizens to be recorded for the state offices than in other years. He disclaimed that there was any politics in the plan of holding state and presidential elections at the same time.

Senator Downing charged the Republicans with insincerity and opposed the mingling of state and national issues.

Senator Fearon said that the Democrats wanted the state elections held when the vote of the cities could be polled without difficulty but when it was hard to get the rural vote to the polls.

CANADIAN PARLIAMENT READY FOR BUSINESS

Ottawa, Feb. 8 (AP).—Members of the Canadian Parliament gathered today, after a long recess, for what promises to be the most business-like sessions in years.

Besides the new legislation forecast in the speech from the throne in December, there is much of last year's work to be done. The last session was overshadowed by a fight for control of the house, and many bills fell by the wayside. The recent elections cleared the political atmosphere. The King government is definitely in power and it seems to be the best desire of all parties to get down to parliamentary business.

TWO ANGLES IN FINDING OF SKELETON

Corning, N. Y., Feb. 8 (AP).—State troopers investigating the finding of a skeleton on the Gib Reynolds estate near Tioga, Pa., last week, today dug up the remainder of the bones frozen in the ground and immediately turned their attention to two angles that have developed in the case.

The troopers headed by John S. Frank, of Mansfield, who was accompanied by Troopers Fox and Davis, of Harrisburg, Pa., took the bones this morning, but would give out no information concerning their findings.

Woman's Confidence in Her Protege Justified

"At that time (1793), astonishing as it may seem, the cotton crop of the entire country could have been raised on a field comprising not more than 200 acres. The price of cotton was exceedingly high because of the cost of preparing it for the market. The chief expense was in cleansing it of dirt, leaves and the seeds which clung to the fibers. It appeared unlikely that cotton could ever be raised in large quantities in this country because of the cost of preparing it for the use of the spinner.

"One evening Mrs. Greene was entertaining a distinguished gathering of southern gentry, and the conversation turned to this particular problem.

"'Surely Mr. Whitney can supply your needs,' said Mrs. Greene, with confidence in her protege. Her guests regarded the remark as a pleasantry, but young Whitney took it in all seriousness. Never having seen a cotton plant, the next day he went into the country and obtained samples of the bolls. Ten days later he had a model of a cotton-cleaning machine."—From "A Popular History of American Invention," by Waldemar Kaempffert.

Prince of Wales Stumbles Again

Debonair Prince Suffered Embarrassing Moment When His Sword and Red Robe Tangled Up With His Feet and He Stumbled.

London, Feb. 8 (AP).—The Prince of Wales suffered one of those embarrassing moments during the state ceremonies attendant upon the opening of Parliament today.

The great assembly of nobles and their ladies in the House of Lords gasped as the heir to the throne, failing to manipulate his sword and long red robe properly, got them tangled up with his feet and stumbled. The debonair prince, however, recovered quickly, and flashed one of his roguish smiles as he left the House.

The prince plays a lonely role in these parliamentary ceremonies, wearing a long state sword under his heavy royal robes, and it is a difficult task to keep the regalia from becoming entangled.

The king and queen have a long procession of pages and high dignitaries to escort them to the throne and guide them on their departure, but the prince enters by himself and leaves alone after the departure of his royal parents.

Dan Cupid Has A Slack Month

Theory Advanced That Cold Weather Nipped His Finger and Caused Him to Miss His Aim—Only Eight Marriage Licenses Issued Last Month.

Whether it was due to the fact that the three heavy snow storms that swept over Kingston so far this winter kept every one busy shoveling snow, or the cold weather nipped the fingers of young Mr. Cupid and caused him to fall off in his marksmanship, the fact remains that during January the city clerk issued but eight marriage licenses. The usual average is from sixteen to twenty licenses.

City Clerk Styles is hoping that with the advent of warmer weather business in the marriage license bureau will pick up, but so far this month business is not up to the average of other Februarys.

DAUGHERTY PICTURED AS STOOPING TO CRAFT.

Federal Court, New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—A picture of Harry M. Daugherty as an attorney-general who stooped to graft while sworn to enforce the law, was sketched today by United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner in his opening address at the trial of Daugherty and Thomas W. Miller former alien property custodian.

"We will show you," Buckner said, "that Jess W. Smith, who later committed suicide in Daugherty's Washington home, was his agent in the transfer of $7,000,000 of the assets of the American Metal Company to Richard Merton, a German, who came over here and translated into John T. King, who was Republican national committeeman until he died last June, for the return of enemy owned property.

"We will show it, only merely by testimony, for he will tell you he paid money only to King and talked only to King. Smith and Miller, but by tracing some of the $391,000 of liberty bonds the very ones Merton gave to King, to the bank of Daugherty's brother, Mal S. Daugherty in Washington Courthouse, Ohio.

SANITY STABILIZES.

During the boom times of 1920, an average of 8.4 per cent of all the factory employes of the United States voluntarily quit their jobs. The year before, 5 8 per cent of the workers threw up their jobs In the panic year 1921, only 2 225 per cent, or one-quarter as large a percentage as in the boom year, voluntarily gave up their places The percentage increased in 1922 and 1923, to fall again to 2 68 per cent in 1924, and then up to 3.1 per cent in 1925.

In general, the factory turnover is in direct ratio to the general prosperity. When factories are short of help, so that any newcomer can pick up a job, the percentage of voluntary quits instantly rises The increasing purchase of industrial securities by employes, is tending to cut down this turnover except in the lowest grades of unskilled labor. The better times appeal to the itching feet of many low-grade workers, those that nothing but starvation and misery would reduce, though never eliminate. That this percentage can grow so slowly, and to so negligible a proportion of the nation's workers, even when prosperity is so marked as it is today, is splendid proof that the nation is basically sound.

SENTIMENT AND BUSINESS.

Nationalism aims to achieve economic and political independence of foreigners in both China and Mexico, and, as in both vested interests may be threatened, inevitably the movement in both is described by the said interests as Bolshevistic. What is of more general interest in this country is that our Government's attitude toward the two movements, differing in particulars but one in spirit, is far from being the same. The State Department looks with "sympathetic interest" upon and even "welcomes" the movement in China, but deplores the movement in Mexico as so misguided and disastrous as to render it advisable to consider withdrawing recognition from the government lawfully elected by the people of that country.

Why this marked difference? The answer of the New York World, quotable for what it may be worth, is in part as follows: "The two situations are by no means identical. But they are sufficiently alike to stress the unlikeness of the two policies which the American Government has adopted toward them. Over a long period of years we have been as liberal and as friendly toward China as we have been illiberal and unfriendly toward Mexico. Doubtless there are various reasons which account for these two different policies. China is far away, for most of us a vaguely open door. Mexico is near at hand, an immediate temptation. China is fenced off by Japan. Mexico lies across a narrow river. There are other factors. Not the least of them is the predominance in China of Americans who are building hospitals and founding schools, and the predominance in Mexico of Americans who have one motive—profit."

SOUND DEMOCRACY.

After preaching State rights and talking anti-centralization for eight years, while too many other Democrats were seeking Federal subsidies for their States and further expanding Federal bureaucracy, Governor Ritchie of Maryland, at his recent third inauguration, characteristically expressed himself as follows: "In many ways a Government can go wrong and still right itself. But if we let the inherent and historic barriers of your Government banish, if you let the States yield their vitality and become anemic and dependent things; if you look on while centralization breeds its bureaucratic, its petty tyranny and its incompetencies; if unprotesting you stand by while the rights of citizenship are overlooked, then do not say the fault lies in the stars when liberty and equality fade and tolerance hides the land forever."

This timorous utterance elicits the following vigorous comment from the New York World: "If there are a few Democrats left who have not spent a large part of the last eight years either in saying me-too to everything proposed by the Republicans or kowtowing to the Anti-Saloon League or conniving with the Klan or knocking the principles of Thomas Jefferson into a cocked hat, Governor Ritchie is one of them The cardinal principles of his political faith are personal liberty and decentralization of government. Those are sound Democratic principles and in the best Jeffersonian tradition."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

YOUR FEET.

Did you ever take a look at the different shapes of feet on a bathing beach?

There are the flat feet with toes turned outward, high arched feet with toes turned inward, long tapering feet that look to be about two inches wide, short broad feet that look to be six inches wide, and many other types that are combinations of the above.

I speak frequently about the feet, because as mentioned before, they have about as much to do with earning our daily bread as the head itself.

Notwithstanding the fact that our shoe manufacturers are turning out shoes suited to almost every type of foot, many individuals are going to wear shoes, that because they are stylish, are likely to cause real trouble not only with the feet, but with the head, that is the nervous system.

In some countries when a pair of shoes is ordered for the first time, the cobbler makes an impression of the sole of the foot, measures the thickness at different points and makes a shoe to fit the foot. He keeps the measurements and makes the shoes thereafter from these measurements.

However for most of us if we get the proper length and width it is not difficult to get a well fitting shoe at any shoe store.

The first thought should be to put on both shoes because one foot is sometimes a little wider and also longer than the other.

Then stand erect and walk a few steps (on a carpet of course). This will give you the chance to see how the shoes feel and fit under actual use, that is with the entire weight of the body on your feet, as they are encased in the new shoes.

Always see that the inner border of the shoe is in a straight line, and that the straight line continues up to the very end of the big toe. As you stand erect in the shoes, see if you can straighten out and then bend your toes, as if you were gripping a marble or other object with the toes. This not only means that you have plenty of room for your toes, but shows also that the full use of the muscles of the feet is assured.

Avoid the high heel, and see that you get a shoe with a large flat heel because it is the heel bone that really sustains your weight. Nature made it big for that purpose, and also to give the heavy calf muscles a good strong bone to pull on when the heel is raised from the ground, as it must be in walking.

A little thought on your part when buying shoes may mean much to your earning capacity, and your enjoyment of life.

HOW

BIRDS WARN OTHERS OF APPROACH OF DANGER.—"Although the cry of alarm is different with each species of bird," writes Oliver G. Pike, in London Tit-Bits, "it is a general note recognized by all.

"One of the best sentinels of the woods is the jay. He is a bird always on the alert and one of the most difficult to approach. If we hear several calling loudly and flying low, they are informing all the wild denizens of the wood that a cat is on the prowl. But if we see them flying above the trees and twisting and turning about as they call, it is a sign that an owl has left his roosting perch and is flying across the wood to a safer retreat.

"Owls which roost must have a very uncomfortable time when they wish to sleep, for some prying bird is sure to discover them, no matter how well hidden they may be among the thick leaves. As soon as the enemy is found one alarm cry is all that is needed, and blackbirds, thrushes, chaffinches, wrens and hosts of other birds will all fly around the owl, which is trying to find rest during the daytime. Each bird utters its noisy cry, but the owl usually sits tight until they tire of tormenting it. An hour or two later another bird will discover the enemy, and that means that the whole noisy din starts over again."

How Knights of Old Prepared for Duties

As one writer on chivalry says: "This system of knighthood is closely bound up with the feudal system of Norman times. It has its roots, however, right back in Germanic times, as Tacitus shows in his account of the manners and customs of this race. But chivalry became further developed in the Eleventh century and the order of knighthood involved many duties and responsibilities. The king himself had to train for knighthood, where he had to serve first as page, then as esquire, before being presented with the golden spurs which were one of the symbols of knighthood. Before a knight was admitted into his order a vigil or night watch was held by him in some gloomy chapel aisle, where he gave himself up to solemn meditation before assuming his new duties and privileges. Chivalry was eminently social in its relations to feudalism and assumed a deep spiritual significance in its relations to the Crusade movement, when the knight had to perform military service for the cause of Christianity against the infidel of Palestine."

How Japanese Destroy Bugs

Rice crops in parts of Japan are spangled with electric lights every night during certain seasons of the year. Japanese farmers have learned that by the use of many lamps they can fool myriads of bugs to commit suicide. Otherwise the bugs would deposit ravenous larvae in the rice plants—to the detriment of the crop. Experiments showed that a 50-watt lamp suspended over a vat of water for each 2½ acres of rice field would attract enough of the insects to materially reduce the damage they can do. The bugs, flying toward the point of light, strike against the lamp bulb and drop into the water to expire. Further experiments will determine how much additional light can be used economically so as to increase the tragedy of bugdom to the highest point in the interest of cheaper and better rice.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—With speculative imagination fired by recent changes in the control of so-called "merger key roads," the stock market today developed another outburst of strength, sending over a score issues to their highest prices in years. The advance was not uniform, several of the standard industrials being liquidated on fears of a drastic reaction if speculative activities were carried to excess. Trading was in unusually heavy volume, averaging nearly half a million shares an hour during the early part of the session.

Rails continued to monopolize interest. Wheeling and Lake Erie common was run up 35 points to 130 on a further retreat of the "short" interest, but the volume was not very large. The preferred soared over 13 points. New peak prices since 1925, or longer, also were registered by the St. Paul issues, Chicago Great Western common and preferred, Wabash common, Reading and Chicago and Eastern Illinois common, the gains running as high as 5½ points.

Resumption of dividends on Remington Typewriter started a buying movement which sent that stock soaring 18 points to a record high at 152, largely at the expense of an overcrowded short interest. Federal Mining and Smelting common jumped 7 points, the preferred 3¾ and Houston Oil, Pressed Steel Car, National Cloak and Suit preferred and Producers and Refiners sold 3 to 5 points higher.

Mohammedan Split

Sunnites are the orthodox Mohammedans, who believe in the Sunnat as well as the Koran. The Sunna is a body of traditions relating to Mohammed and his teaching. The Sunna is rejected by the Shiites, the other great section of Mohammedans. The Mohammedans in Persia are the chief Shiites, the inhabitants of most other Mohammedan countries being Sunnites.

Fosdick Favors The Confessional

Baptist Clergyman Urges Its Substitution for Psychoanalyst's Office Among Protestants—Conducts Confessional In His Own Church.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Substitution of the confessional for the psychoanalyst's office is urged for Protestants by the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist Church.

Dr. Fosdick views the Catholic confessional as an "amazing service for the treatment of sick souls" and advocates a "renaissance of evangelistic preaching" to replace old style evangelism, "thrown out the back door" by modern Protestant Christians.

"For six years I have conducted—Baptist though I am—what I call a confessional," the pastor of the Rockefeller family told the Greater New York Federation of Churches yesterday. "I am not afraid to recover things the Protestants threw away—beauty of service and the confessional."

Noting what he called a modern tendency, particularly among Protestants, "to forget that the center of the Christian activity is still in the individual," Dr. Fosdick declared Christ formed no committees no "fomented political revolutions." Christ directed himself toward the individual "who constitutes the basis of the social structure."

Pleading for closer contact between pastor and individual, Dr. Fosdick explained he maintains an office "where people who know they are spiritually sick and mentally disturbed can come with their problems."

"With Pleasure and Confidence"

Respected Rochester woman tells how Tanlac stopped year of suffering. Gained 14 pounds, now enjoys excellent health and recommends this valued family remedy.

Cheery, capable, and energetic Mrs. Garner C. Thompson, 26 Grand View Terrace, Rochester, N. Y. But for a whole weary year she suffered misery. "I had frequent bilious spells," she said, "with violent headaches and bloating. Sleep was out of the question, so my nerves became all unstrung. Eating caused acute distress; even the lightest food was distasteful.

"Nothing seemed to help me, and I grew discouraged. At last I tried Tanlac, and the second bottle showed results. My dragged, listless feeling soon disappeared and I picked up rapidly. My appetite came back, and I began to sleep normally once more. In a short time I put on 14 lbs. of firm wholesome flesh. I used six bottles in all. I recommend Tanlac with pleasure and confidence."

Mrs. Thompson's case is not unique. Many thousands of grateful friends have written to tell us how they won their way to rugged health with the help of Tanlac. Your druggist has it. Over $2,000,000 bottles already sold.

Hurleyville Law New But Effective

Community Decree Keeps Wichinsky Away From Village, But Meanwhile His Bakery Is Too Big a Problem for His Wife.

Over in Hurleyville, Sullivan county, they evidently have laws of their own which if not written on the statute books are very effective.

Ida Wichinsky, who is seeking a separation from her husband, Jacob, wants counsel fees and alimony for herself and nine children. Jacob claims he cannot pay it. Judge Hasbrouck has referred the matter to Judge Rosch for determination.

The Wichinsky family came to Hurleyville and bought or established a bakery business. It prospered and they made money and improved the bakery plant until it was once valued at $65,000, and even now is valued at $50,000. Mr. Wichinsky, it is alleged, departed from the narrow path and there came trouble between man and wife. Ellsworth Baker, who appeared for the defendant, did not deny that his client had erred, he admitted it. His client had thrown water over his wife and had chased her with an axe. His conduct toward his wife became such that a committee which apparently looks out for the citizens of Hurleyville decreed that Jacob must leave Hurleyville and allow her to retain sole possession of the bakery. They so informed Jacob and he left, hurriedly. He left so hurriedly that he had to borrow money for his car fare, according to his story.

Now the bakery is running behind and there is a new bakery in the town. Mrs. Wichinsky seeks to run the business as the committee decreed, but she is unable to cope with the situation and business is falling off. Counsel for Mr. Wichinsky asked that he be allowed to return to Hurleyville in spite of the orders of the committee and resume management of the bakery and thereby earn a living for his family and provide for them. It is claimed that he is unable to do so now. He is a master baker. It is feared that the bakery at Hurleyville will become a losing proposition under the management of Mrs. Wichinsky and Jacob will be unable to provide for his family and the family fortune will thus be lost.

John D. Lyons appeared for Mrs. Wichinsky. She wishes to retain management of the bakery but the problem is too big for her.

It is said that the defendant has mended his ways and could make the business a paying proposition again. Judge Hasbrouck, however, did not enter into that proposition, but referred the matter to Judge Rosch for determination.

Your Income Tax

While ordinarily the basis of determining taxable gain or deductible loss is cost, certain exceptions are provided by the revenue act of 1926. One is that if the property has been included in the taxpayer's last inventory, the basis shall be the last inventory value thereof. In order to reflect the net income correctly, inventories at the beginning and end of each year are necessary in every case in which the production, purchase, or sale of merchandise is an income-producing factor. The inventory should include raw materials and supplies on hand that have been acquired for sale, consumption or use in productive processes, together with all finished or partly finished goods. Only merchandise, title to which is vested in the taxpayer should be included in the inventory.

If the property was acquired by gift after December 31, 1920, the basis is the same as it would be in the hands of the donor, or last preceding owner by whom it was not received by gift. For example, a man in 1921 bought stock in a corporation at $100 a share, kept it until January, 1922, when it was worth $120, and then gave it to his son, who, in 1925, gave it to his wife, the stock then being worth $150 a share. If in 1926 the wife sold the stock at $200 a share the taxable gain is not $50 but $100 a share, the gain over the cost to the preceding owner, who did not acquire the stock by gift.

In computing the gain or loss from the sale or other disposition of property acquired by gift or transfer in trust on or before December 31, 1920, or by bequest, devise, or inheritance, the basis is the fair market value of such property at the time of acquisition. For example, a taxpayer received in 1919 a gift of real estate having a fair market value of $10,000, which he sold in 1925 for $15,000. The original cost to the donor was $12,000. The taxable gain, however, is $5,000.

Kingston Savings Bank Adds Boxes

Safe Deposit Boxes Added to Equipment for Convenience of Depositors—Boxes Already Installed—Vault Well Protected.

The Kingston Savings Bank, 273 Wall street, has added a safe deposit department to its banking house for the convenience of its depositors. When the banking house was remodeled in 1925 provisions were made for the safe deposit department at the right of the main lobby. At that time, however, the state banking law would not permit a savings bank to operate a safe deposit department. Since that time the law has been altered and the provisions made at the time of remodeling the bank for the department were quickly made available.

A large double door Remington and Sherman vault entrance gives access to the safe deposit vault at the right of the bank. Adjoining are three private booths where patrons may examine in private papers and securities from the safe deposit department.

The vault will be electrically controlled and is entered through two massive steel doors. A portion of the currency vault has been partitioned off with heavy steel plates to provide room for the new department. At present there are 302 boxes but there is ample room for at least 1,200 boxes.

In cutting the opening for the safe deposit vault door, three and four men were engaged for nine days cutting out the necessary aperature for the installation of the heavy steel doors. Eighteen inches of reinforced concrete which goes to make up the side of the currency vault had to be cut through. The safe deposit vault is entirely separate from the main vault and is reached through a separate entrance.

The new department was installed for the convenience of depositors at the bank who frequently demanded a safe deposit box. The boxes are furnished in five sizes and the moderate cost is regulated by the size of the box.

All of the necessary work with the exception of the installation of the huge steel entrance doors was done in 1925 when the entire bank was remodeled and enlarged.

ULSTER PARK.

Ulster Park, Feb 7.—A large number of members of Ulster Grange, No. 969, were present at the meeting on Wednesday evening. The question of whether Ulster Grange would transfer its purchasing department to the Hudson River Fruit Exchange if a branch was established here, was thoroughly discussed. It was decided finally that G. C. DuMond be empowered to make the necessary arrangements. A report of the progress made will be given at the next meeting on Wednesday, February 16. The Grange is enjoying interesting meetings with the attendance large. The literary program for the next meeting is in charge of Brother H. V. Story, and this alone will assure members of a good time.

A very interesting winter meeting of the Farm Bureau was held at Odd Fellows' Hall on February 2. Prof. Heinicke, of the State College, gave talks on the apple industry and fertilization problems which were very instructive and practical. The large number of questions asked him and the discussion which followed showed that both subjects were vital and that more thought should be given to the application of fertilizers. C. C. DuMond gave a report of the meeting of the Hudson River Fruit Growers' Conference which was held recently in Poughkeepsie. The program as outlined met with the approval of the growers. An excellent clam chowder dinner was served at noon. During the afternoon session the following committeemen were chosen for the ensuing year: Harry Elmendorf, C. H. Van Buren, C. C. Schultz, Ralsen Mott, Tracy Van Vliet, C. H. Polhemus and Melvin Churchwell.

A letter from Miss Nance, of the Home Bureau, states that it is expected that a date can soon be fixed on which the diphtheria clinic will be held. A total of 70 children have signed up so far. It is probable that the clinic will be held in the school house.

The Ladies' Aid of the Reformed Church will meet at the home of Mrs. W. K. Cole Friday, February 18, at 2:30 o'clock.

The Blue Star—
A Seal of Distinction

THERE are many separate reasons why appliances bearing the BLUE STAR, a seal of distinction, should be insisted upon by our customers, yet each and every one is grounded in the principles of SAFETY and SERVICE to the consumer.

Unless a gas range, a water heater, or any other gas burning appliance is designed and constructed to utilize the tremendous stored energy in gas most efficiently and with the highest degree of safety, our consumers cannot hope to secure, from the gas they use, its maximum effectiveness.

The gas industry through the American Gas Association has established certain standards which must be attained in the various gas burning appliances, before the manufacturers of these appliances are entitled to stamp their products with the BLUE STAR of APPROVAL.

This company confines its sales of gas burning appliances to those bearing the above BLUE STAR SEAL of the Testing Laboratory of the American Gas Association.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Cairo Presents a Sort of International Fashion Show in Which, Curiously Enough, There Is a Uniformity of Idea

Cairo, Egypt—Once upon a time, when Africa seemed very far off indeed, a very astute merchant said, "If I were a woman writing of fashions, I would go to Cairo and sit on the terrace of Shepheard's Hotel and watch an entire review of the world." It made a great impression on me, this remark, so here I am, after several years have intervened, and the man was right.

An international fashion parade goes on continuously, or rather during the season now beginning, and one sees here, as elsewhere, how naturally women accept the newest things brought forth. Almost simultaneously with reports from New York that white fox is beginning again to be fashionable, one finds women sitting around the lounge of this famous hotel, their bare shoulders a foil for a white fox scarf, or their evening wraps, thrown over chairs, collared with it.

Last evening after dinner, the coloring of all the costumes was delicate. There were not so many all-white gowns as in Paris. One can see at once their impracticability for traveling but there were pink, and apricots and peach shades, soft bois de rose, and several blacks always, however, over either flesh or silver, or in some way lightened.

One charming frock, for instance, was of black net over silver, with vermicelli design in silver in the frock. The short skirt hung in points over a silver one bordered with black velvet and a bright fuchsia. This with the black and silver was repeated for the girdle, over which fell points similar to the skirt, these being on a straight hanging bolero.

The bolero bodice is worn very much here, and how unlike it is to the fitted and rounded bolero and zouave jackets affected by the Arabs. For in this country it is the men who wear the colorful and gorgeous raiment, the women, at least those seen in public places, being nearly always in black, and, of course veiled.

(Copyright, 1927, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service, New York.)

A Degrade Effect Is an Outstanding Feature of the Frock Below, with Three Shades of Rose Appearing in the Paillette Embellishment, and a Fourth Shade Marking the Chiffon Frock.

Crystal Fringes Give a Glittering Touch to a Frock of White Satin Above, Applied in V-Shaped Outline on the Bodice and an Inverted V on the Skirt.

Eleanor Gunn Says

Cairo, Egypt.—Arriving in Cairo, one is impressed by the uniformity with which all parts of the world accept the current fashions.

The wool two-piece dress, the darling of Paris, is the general favorite here, despite a much warmer climate.

Navy is the choice of the best-dressed travelers, no matter what their nationality.

White fox scarfs and white fox collars are worn at night, but neither here nor in Paris are they seen by day.

When scarfs are worn, they are more inclined to be of the bandanna type in large squares of plaid or of novelty surah.

Brown alligator and other leather shoes, matching the handbag, are very general.

Brown furs, especially when trimming either tan or navy, are worn more than grays in Cairo, possibly because the shoes and accessories are more practical than a gray ensemble for traveling.

Velvet fur-trimmed coats are worn, not, of course, for traveling, but around the tea terraces and at places requiring formal dressing.

Wherever you find a French woman traveling, she is almost sure to be wearing a short-jacketed suit, the exception being the wool jumper dress with a top coat.

Wool jumper dresses seem to have leaped into international repute, novelty woolens usually being chosen.

For evening, shaded fringe is conspicuous here, and the beaded dress is seen rather less than in Paris.

$50,000.00 Contest

prize winning true story

IN True Story Magazine for March appears the most powerful true story ever written.

It is a tale so outstandingly different, so virile, so potent with truth and life and love and conflict, so deeply moving, so powerfully compelling that by unanimous decision of the judges it was awarded the first prize in the mammoth $50,000 true story contest recently conducted by True Story Magazine in which upwards of fifty thousand manuscripts were received from all over the world.

A Tale of the Cumberland Mountains

It is a story of the city and of the wilderness. Of a gently reared girl accustomed to the refinement and culture of genteel city life set abruptly down amid the Kentucky lumber camps, there to be swept off her feet, blinded to the realities of life, by forces over which she had no control. Of a community of rough-hewn mountain folk rent asunder by the coming among them of a girl whose sweet dignity and reserve, whose stylish mode of dress, everything about her so different from the girls they knew, aroused in the hearts of the river men and lumber jacks a raging storm of conflict.

A tale of rushing, log-jammed streams. Of primitive passions surging in the breasts of men who feared neither God, nor man, nor devil. Who constantly courted violent death as a part of each day's work. A tale of tears and blood and tragedy, of hate and love and jealousy. Of a titanic battle for a bewildered woman's heart. While over all hung the dread menace of the double-bitted ax, one blade of which was red. It is entitled "Stronger Than Death."

MARGERY

from the depths of whose grief-stricken heart comes this lonely cry

"John Devignet still pleads with me to marry him and let him take me away from the hills and the drudgery of teaching in the little mission school, but it seems to me that the decision has been taken from my hands by fate. I want to go with him—oh, God, I'd give my soul to go, for I love him with every fibre of my being, but I can't drive away the picture of George's wistful, ashen, hopeless, pleading face, across that rawly current of spray filled logs.

"I've tried to forget, but the memory clings too vividly. Is it that I must sacrifice my happiness in atonement for the crime that I have done?"

GEORGE ELLIS

Tall, diffident with strangers, slow of speech, this "Boss" of the lumbermen was also big and handsome. And one of the most fearless, most daring men that ever swung an ax or rode the logs in the boiling current of the treacherous river. His word was law among his men. But could he make it carry weight with a woman—and such a woman as Margery?

JOHN DEVIGNET

College-bred, son of the owner of the logging operations, John Devignet represented a side of life of which George Ellis knew but little. When he came to the logging camps as general superintendent, the men were prepared to laugh at him as a cultured dandy who would quake at every shadow. But they found that he could take care of himself in war or love.

The Author says:

"Stronger Than Death" is an account of the tragic experience that befell a dear friend when she, a girl of culture and refinement, accepted the position as teacher in a mission school deep in the fastnesses of the Cumberland Mountains.

"I have written in the first person, first because the rules of the contest require that all stories submitted be in the first person, and second because I have set it down so nearly the way she herself told it to me that I feel justified in presenting it as coming from her own lips."

Mary Sutherland

The Author A World War Veteran

Written by Mr. H. M. Sutherland, world war veteran and resident of a Virginia town in the foot-hills of the Cumberland Mountains, it is the tragic drama that befell one of his dearest friends. Margery, about whom the story revolves, did not feel that she could do the story justice. The events were all too recent—so close that her perspective was lost. But she told it all to Mr. Sutherland. And he in turn, using rare discrimination out of his sympathy and understanding, has set down what is without doubt the most powerful true story ever written. Not a pretty story. Powerful stories rarely are. But a deeply moving story, a gripping story, an epic tale told just as it was lived. Easily the outstanding story of all the fifty thousand received in the greatest true story contest ever conducted. You will find it in True Story Magazine for March, now on sale, at all newsstands.

PLANTS NEED FOOD!

Water and Sunshine Not Enough—Food Needed to Develop Full Vitality and Beauty.

"Plant Luck" is a byword among flower lovers everywhere. Most people think that success with plants is more or less of a gamble. They forget that plants are living organisms—that they drink, breathe and eat. Therefore, plants need water, air, sunshine and food.

Heretofore it has been a problem to know how to feed plants. Now, however, an organization of horticultural specialists has solved the plant food problem by developing what are called Fertilis Tablets. You simply place a tablet near the root of each plant and the result is new life, greater vitality, more beautiful blossoms, more luxuriant foliage.

Fertilis Tablets are concentrated plant food in handy, convenient form. They come 100 to a box and sell for 25c. They also come in a tin containing 1000 at $2.00. Druggists, Florists, Seed Houses and General Stores supply Fertilis Tablets. Local stores report quite an interest in these "life savers" for plants. Fertilis Tablets are also wonderful for cut flowers; they prolong the freshness and beauty to a remarkable extent. Easy directions are included with each box. Get a box today. If your dealer can't supply, order direct from International Agricultural Corporation, 61 Broadway, New York.

First Emergency Road Service

Member of Ulster County Automobile Club Receives First Service of 1927 Given With Club Membership.

The first emergency road service for 1927 rendered through an Ulster County Automobile Club membership was that given to Mr. Severy of 180 Albany avenue this city last Saturday. Mr. Severy's car became disabled at Albany and he was unable to get it started. Looking up his emergency road service guide he called the Armory Garage Company, Sherman street, Albany, and within ten minutes an emergency road service car was on the job. Within a short time his car was in operation and the service which cost $2 was entirely satisfactory to Mr. Severy. Monday on presenting his receipt for $2 to Benjamin Suekind secretary of the Ulster County Automobile Club he was reimbursed for the money paid out.

Mr Severy was more than pleased with the prompt service which was rendered through the official A. A. A. Garage upon which he called. This is the first emergency road service which has been rendered to a member of the local club since the adoption of the service and proves that the service is a reality.

The service is given with each membership in the Ulster County Automobile Club and is state wide

RECENT NEWS OF THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

A future as bright as the chromium plating on Oldsmobile radiators was visioned by the Western dealers of Olds Motor Works at their annual dinner held Wednesday of the past week in the Gold room in the Congress Hotel, Chicago. Nearly five hundred dealers were present at this meeting, held during the week of the Chicago national automobile show. Recapitulating the records of 1926, President Reuter pointed out that the automobile industry as a whole has gained 2.88 per cent during the year while the gain for the year by Oldsmobile in domestic sales, was 28.15 per cent, or more than 10 times as much as the gain of the entire industry.

Gains in export business in 1924, are reported by the Fale-Detroit Motor Car Company, the increase over 1925 being 39 per cent. As compared with 1924, last year's exports showed a gain of 159 per cent. About 80 per cent of the exported cars were closed models, the foreign preference for open cars, formerly so marked, having yielded to the opportunity to obtain sedans at no more cost than touring cars. These figures do not include Canadian shipments, which gained 118 per cent in 1926.

Driving a Chevrolet car daily in the rough, hilly districts of Missouri for a total cost of $22.35 for 24,000 miles of driving over a period of six years is the record attained by Mrs. Olen Gentry, of Mill Grove, Mo.

Appetizing ways to prepare them will be discussed at the home service classes this week, when Miss Fanny C. Kniff, Kingston director of Central Hudson home service, will demonstrate. Meetings will be held according to the usual schedule, on Wednesday evening at 7:30 and at 2:30 in the afternoon on Thursday, in the home service auditorium at 3 Field Court.

Kindle Torches at Campfire Service

Unique and Impressive Service at Y. M. C. A.—Reproduction of Campfire at International Conference in Finland.

Over 400 people were present at the service conducted by the Chi Rho Club of the Kingston Central Y M C. A. at the auditorium Sunday afternoon, in spite of the inclement weather

The service was a reproduction of the Older Boys' International campfire, which was held on the last evening of the International Boys' Conference at Helsingfors, Finland.

The opening service of Scripture reading and prayer was conducted by Ernest Palen. Then Arthur L Cotton, a Gloversville young man who was sent to the conference in Helsingfors by the boys of the northeast section of New York state, was introduced by Chairman Kukuk. Mr. Cotton gave the picture of the first campfire which had been held at Vaumarcus Switzerland, and told how the 250 boys who were delegates to the conference at Helsingfors had come forward, by nations, singing their songs, and then lighting their torches

The Scene at Helsingfors.

In national groups the boys lined up and marched to one of the Helsingfors's athletic fields. They sat in a huge circle, each having a chance to sing their national anthem. In the center of this ring was a large pile of logs Very impressively the fire was lighted by a stick from the International Campfire at Vaumarcus, Switzerland. Each time this will be done it is a tradition in the history of Christian work.

The sides of the natural amphitheatre were a mass of people their faces just discernible in the light of the fire They were the townspeople and the older delegates of the conference who were to have no part in the gathering in which youth was supreme.

In a moment of silent prayer, said Mr Cotton, every boy as he offered his prayer, offered one for world peace and brotherhood Representative of what the world had contributed to this spirit of fellowship by furnishing the simple things of life, the representative of each continent threw upon the fire the products that were prevalent on his continent.

Then a member of each race and nation came into the glow of the fire and read a short message from his nation to the group. All were burning with the fire of Christian brotherhood, ready as they go back to a world which does not believe in love, good will and unity, to be guided by their visions and hopes to crush hatred and suspicions.

Each boy had a birch stick, carved from the wood of Finland, on which he had worked for a long time. On this stick were the names of boys from all nations carved by representatives of them. Each boy in his turn went up to the blazing logs very solemnly and thoughtfully burned it on one end in this fire of all fires

These sticks will be used to light some fire in other places to spread world brotherhood and the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

The boys took an oath as they left the fire which is as follows: "We leave this fire with the vision of a great Christian fellowship conscious of differences but resolved to love."

That was the spirit of the fire, and as one of them who was there, Mr. Cotton left the message "that there is, but are we, as Christian leaders, men enough to do it"?

Lighting the Torches.

Mr. Cotton used the torch that he had received in Finland, and then lighted the torch of Emerson Davis, whose torch had been kindled first at the Older Boys' Conference at Buffalo. Mr. Davis then lighted the campfire for the Kingston boys. This was done in a dramatic manner, the lights having been arranged so that the auditorium was in darkness and only a dim light from an artificial moon flooding the stage. The flames of the real campfire loomed up and throughout the entire service, cast their flickering glow over the stage.

Then a brief ceremony of showing what the various continents had contributed to the spirit of fellowship was given, after which Chairman Kukuk led the audience in intercessory prayer, and a prayer of thanksgiving.

Adding the Logs.

To present the fact that youth is only taking up the tasks of the older generation, three men, representing the men who are interested in the boy life of this city, brought three logs and laid them on the fire while Scout Executive Smith spoke briefly, that they were passing on to the boys the "Faith of their Fathers", while the audience joined in singing "Faith of Our Fathers, Living Still".

At Helsingfors, one of the striking features was the presenting of the flags of the various nations while a representative of each nation read in his own tongue a brief statement of the purpose of his delegation as they returned home to carry on the ideals of the conference. So in Kingston, the boys brought forward the flags of 20 different nations that were at the Helsingfors Conference, and read the statements of the boys at the other conference.

An Impressive Sight.

The flags, held by the young men, against the green background with the flickering camp fire, made an impressive sight that was only strengthened when the chairman called upon all the ministers of the city to come forward with a young man delegate, and receive a torch, emblematic of the Gospel of Jesus, which they were to hold aloft so that the young men of the city would rally in even larger numbers to His Service.

After each representative had lighted his torch they all held them aloft and repeated with the chairman the following lines, "we leave this campfire, with a vision of a great Christian Fellowship, conscious of difficulties, but resolved to love."

Messages from Other Chapters.

Messages which had been received from other chapters of Chi Rho were read at this time, "Buffalo Chi Rho sends greetings to the fellows of Kingston with the hope that rapidly the fellows of New York state will grow closer and closer together in the common fellowship standing for world brotherhood. The message of Helsingfors could well be the message of all of us."

The group then took seats in the front of the auditorium and the chairman introduced Dr John Brown, Jr., of the National Council of the Y. M C. A Dr. Brown has traveled extensively and has had a wonderful opportunity to study the youth of the world Besides this Dr. Brown was a delegate to the Helsingfors Conference and was also treasurer of the U. S. Olympic team in 1924.

Purity, Prayer and Peace.

Dr. Brown spoke briefly on the Helsingfors Conference and its significance in the movements of the world and then launched into his address proper.

His address could be properly divided into three parts, for as the doctor developed his theme he made strong pleas for purity, prayer and for peace.

"Purity of heart, mind and soul as well as body are the prime necessities of one who is going out to do things for his Master. One mayest not let the luxuries or the leisure of these days and of this nation permit him in any way from allowing his body to be kept in any but the best condition. Coupled with the body is also the mind and the soul."

Prayer the doctor developed as the necessity of one who wants to go ahead as a real leader for the things worth while. One must always be in communication with the God, if they were to be real interpreters of the Christian life.

Dr. Brown in speaking on peace, spoke not as the pacifist who says "No" and "I won't", but from the standpoint of one who had seen service, that peace can only come when all men's hearts are really in tune with the Infinite and there is a determined effort made to put into practice the teaching of Jesus in the very day life of all people.

Taking Up the Torch.

In closing Dr. Brown charged those who had lit their torches at the fire, that "In the beginning God said; let there be light and there was", and then God sent Jesus Christ into the world as the true light. Now these young men, backed by the respective pastors, were taking up the emblematic torch of the Gospel of Jesus, and were going back to their respective churches to hold it high and keep it bright. He charged them to keep their hearts, minds, and bodies pure, their thoughts high, constantly seeking the guidance of God, until all men and boys should be won to the service of one master.

The meeting closed by singing "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian Love", after which the Rev. C. B. Smith, president of the Kingston Ministerial Association, pronounced the benediction.

As a result of this service, the Chi Rho Club hope that there will be started in each group throughout the city a small band of young men who will accept the torch given their delegates and will unite themselves with the young men of the other churches in carrying on the message of Vaumarcus and of Helsingfors, "Conscious of difference but resolved to love".

The service was ably assisted by the Hi-Y deputation team orchestra run under the leadership of Mr. Dumm.

In the evening the Kingston Hi-Y deputation team went to the Woodstock Reformed Church where they conducted a union service. Seventeen boys made the trip and were splendidly received by the Woodstock folk.

HIGHLIGHTS OF FASHIONS IN PALM BEACH

Palm Beach—Too much cannot be said of the sweater vogue or the amount of Jersey worn. Every second woman either wears a jersey two-piece dress, or else a sweater or cardigan of some sort.

Light blue seems to be favored in connection with slip-on sweaters, particularly those of angora wool.

Yoke effects are prominent in coats, evolved by means of contrasting embroidery, or by summer furs.

The resort coat continues a favorite in flannel, in white usually, varying with pastel pinks, mauve and yellow. Mrs Howard Major subscribes to the vogue, wearing a straight-line white flannel coat with white fox collar and cuffs. Her costume also illustrates another popular vogue mentioned above—a striped blue sweater worn with blue flannel skirt, and blue felt.

Large Hats Appear.

Broad stripes of gold colored gauze are introduced in textures, and are seen both in day and evening wear Both Mrs Major and Mrs. Malcolm Meacham wear wraps of this type, that of the former on a black ground, and the latter on a beige ground trimmed with summer ermine.

Enormous hats appeared at the Breakers Casino in large numbers on the first really warm day of the new year. They were of Milan, as well as of the lighter straws, the latter sometimes combined with velvet crowns. Yellow was especially popular, as well as light green, while contrasting ribbon around the crown or a flower of some sort provided trimming

The flower decoration, posed on shoulder or belt, is a strong favorite for daytime wear, appearing on informal frocks, often made of the dress fabric, featuring ragged petals. One costume with tan kasha jumper with border of rose and green stripes, at neck-line and cuffs, repeats this two-color idea in the color of two huge crushed roses worn on the left shoulder.

The printed square worn kerchief fashion, tied at one shoulder, is another effective and popular disposition of the neck-line. Often it is of the same fabric as the dress in monotone, printed in gold kid.

A Distinctive Cotton Dress.

A cotton dress chosen for morning wear was distinctive, done in with an upper section of white having horizontal red pin stripes, while the skirt had a knee-deep border of wider stripes of red. It also exemplified sleeveless styling.

Flesh pink and the dull "off" shades of rose are sufficiently numerous to be reckoned among the color favorites. There is always enough of it about to be noticeable.

There seems to be a little gray worn—interesting in that it was not seen last year. When it appears, a contrasting and brighter hue is usually introduced in accompanying millinery, with favor particularly inclining toward red.

Red with white is another popular combination. Many women wear costumes all white save for a red hat and a red boutonniere.

Novel patterns in weave and stitching were distinguished features of coats of special note. Mrs. Gail C. Grant, for instance, has one of white cloth printed in an allover futuristic design in pinks and yellow. Another costume consists of a bois de rose jumper dress of crepe, topped by a three-quarter duvetyn coat of slightly lighter tone, stitched in a quilted design.

Joe Vosdick Wins Over Kid Brown

Saugerties Boxer Kayos Colored Boy From East Kingston at White Eagle—Ameli Unable To Answer Bell For Fourth Round.

Two knockouts were registered at White Eagle Hall Monday night. One was scored by Joe Vosdick of Saugerties over Kid Brown of East Kingston and the other over Billy Owens of Poughkeepsie by Billy Litts of Highland. But the one that created the most enthusiasm was the knockout that Joe Vosdick completed when he landed a healthy right to the chin of Kid Brown, East Kingston's stellar colored boxer.

The fans never lost interest in this affair which was all action from the time that the two boys entered the ring until the close. Brown was a flashy fighter and was wide open for the first two rounds He hit Vosdick almost at will, but never had enough strength to hurt the Saugerties lad. The colored fighter had an entirely different style than that of George Lunden whom Vosdick fought in Port Ewen recently and appeared to baffle Joe for the first round.

In the second frame of the contest Vosdick used his left more readily and warded off numerous blows of Kid Brown. But Brown was still using his dangerous attack and many of the ringworms looked for a pro longed affair with a possibility of the Saugerties boy receiving an unfavorable end.

Then came the final round made so by Joe Vosdick If the fight lasted longer the Saugerties idol might have displayed wonderful ability for he improved in every round. But cruel fate, if that is what it may be called, hovered about the ring and the contest ended when a neat right, which manifested that Joe has a wonderful punch besides that which he holds in his left, wound up by Vosdick landed on the jaw of Kid Brown. Brown took the count and when helped to his corner seemed to wonder what it was all about and his actions registered the fact that Vosdick can deliver the goods.

Litts Kayoed Owens.

The knockout scored by Litts was not as much a thriller as the one registered by Vosdick for the fans were not at all pleased with the showing of the two fighters Neither displayed much speed and Owens looked as though he might have been trying to shampoo the large crop of hair possessed by his opponent. In the second round Owens graced the canvas in a reclining position and was apparently unable to rise the last time he produced a thump on the floor of the arena.

McVeigh Among the Missing.

The fans were not favorably "all het up" by this sort of exhibition and were aggravated by the appearance of Johnny Carpino and Charlie Fisher. Nevertheless it was the best the management could do for Mickey McVeigh did no show up to contend with Fisher. Carpino was the only man that could be procured to go on with Fisher. The boys did put on a fairly good boxing exhibition which pleased some of the fans.

Boxer Joined the Navy.

There was one other sparring exhibition on the card which proved several notches faster than the Carpino-Fisher setto. This was between Vince Hart and Charlie Sangaline, both of East Kingston. Mc-Norton, who was to fight Hart, it was rumored, joined the navy and was unable to attend. It is possible that he would as soon stop shells from 12 inchers as Hart's wallops. Although Hart was handicapped by not having an opponent he displayed his cleverness with Sangaline, who is his sparring partner. He did not spare Charlie in the least and had his face bleeding from the rain of punches he showered upon him.

Ameli Was Tired Out.

The Ameli-Mack fracas lasted for three rounds when Ameli threw up the sponge. He was in no condition to continue the fight after three rounds and the fans were prevented from seeing Gene Mack after he really got warmed up. Ameli seemed to be in no condition and his endurance was registered as very poor after the second round. He did a marathon for a portion of the frolic and forced Gene to chase after him. He had a novel way of stopping and getting a grip on Mack's neck in wrestler-like fashion but it only tended to tire its user. Ameli, Mack, as usual, displayed that he is a tough customer and not to be played with.

Kid Sisler Changed His Mind.

Kid Sisler could not stick in the roped arena for even one turn of the hand on the stop watch and was holding the ropes in a supporting fashion due to the blows uncorked by Johnny Risco. Risco is of East Kingston and was seconded by Vince Hart who evidently has shown the boy some tricks of the trade. The victorious fighter at once bounced forth and landed a rain of punches on his adversary when the opening gong sounded. His actions apparently took the "starch" out of Kid Sisler who decided to return to the dressing room.

Pleasing Entertainment.

Wendell Scherer pleased the fans very much by his vocal renditions and many of the fight followers said that they would rather hear the little lad's voice than witness some of the rounds. He was forced to respond to several encores. John Cullum also pleased the audience with songs while Harry Meisenhelder accompanied the vocalists on the piano in the usual sterling fashion

The work of Eddie Scherer and Ed Cashin as announcer and referee respectively, was appreciated by all who attended the bouts.

The promoters had it announced from the ring that they expected very much that some of the fighters who were scheduled and promised to appear, did not arrive They also said that the next affair would not be marred by the same happening

Sunday School League Notes

On Wednesday evening three games will be played in the Senior Sunday School Basketball League. The first game of the evening at 8 o'clock will be between the Redeemer and First Dutch teams. The Redeemer team has not tasted defeat in the league so far this season, winning nine consecutive games. If the Redeemer team wins Wednesday it will win the Sunday School Basketball League (Senior Section), having only three more games to play. Their nearest rival, which is the Presbyterian outfit, has lost three games, which gives the Redeemer team a chance to loose two out of its three remaining games.

The second game of the evening will be between the Presbyterian and Comforter.

The third and final game will be between Congregational and Clinton Avenue.

Says Wells Earns $20,000 a Year

Matilda Wells Therefore Asks Court to Increase Alimony of $100 a Month Granted Some Years Ago.

Matilda Wells, through her attorney, J. D. Lyons, asked Judge Hasbrouck at Saturday's special term of the Supreme court that her husband, Stephen W. Wells, pay her more alimony. A number of years ago alimony in the sum of $100 a month was granted and since that time it is alleged that defendant's earning capacity has increased until now it is said he earns $20,000 a year. Plaintiff asks that she have an increase in alimony. Mr. Wells has since been married and it is alleged he maintains a palatial apartment for his present family. William G. Birmingham appeared for defendant. He denied the large income. A week was given to file answering affidavits.

Wants Gray Punished.

An application to punish for contempt of court was made in the case of Mary Louise Gray against Herman Gray. It is alleged defendant has failed to pay alimony allowed by the courts and that he is now $1,600 in arrears. He contends that he is ill and is now living with his aged mother. Decision was reserved.

Home Bureau Elects Officers

Additions were made to the advisory council, Mrs. Eppes of Accord being named advisor in nutrition, Mrs. Mary Deyo of Gardiner advisor in food preparation, and Mrs. John Saxe of West Hurley advisor in clothing department.

Saugerties Man Seeks Annulment

After Separation, Discovers Wife's First Husband Is Alive—Wife Says She Was Advised She Was Free to Re-Marry.

Nine years after his marriage, James C. Young Jr., of Saugerties, N. Y., asked Justice May in equity term of the Supreme court, yesterday, to free him from Mrs. Mable Cowan Young of 1299 St. Marks avenue, on the ground that Joseph S. Cowan, her first husband, declared to have been dead, is alive. Says the Brooklyn Daily Eagle of Sunday.

The first husband, who was a sailor when last heard of, bobbed up out of the dim and distant past. He lives on Staten Island. He has a new wife and four children.

Justice May, after the trial, declared if there is any possible loophole in the law, he will deny the petition of Young for annulment of his marriage.

"The sympathy of the Court must go out to this defendant wife," said Justice May, referring to Mrs. Cowan-Young "I am convinced her second husband has resorted to this action not because her first husband was found to be alive, or because he was deceived when he married her, but because he wanted to take advantage of a legal technicality. If I can decide in favor of Mrs. Young and uphold the validity of her marriage, I will do so without the slightest hesitation, but I can think of no legal authority warranting such a decision."

Counsel to Seek Loophole.

In reserving decision, Justice May directed her counsel, Alfred J. Gilchrist, to search for the loophole in the law.

"To deny Young an annulment would be against public policy and against the spirit of the law of this state," said Malcolm Ross Matheson, attorney for Young, to the court.

Young testified that when he married December 2, 1917, his wife told him that her first husband, Joseph S. Cowan, a sailor, had been declared judicially dead.

About a year ago they quarrelled and parted and last summer, Young said, he learned of the existence of his wife's first husband.

Mrs. Cowan-Young testified that in 1914 her relatives informed her that Cowan had been drowned in a shipwreck. When she became acquainted with Young she told him the "whole story" of her life. Young, she said, took her to a lawyer, Felix Reifschneider, Jr., who died several years ago, and the lawyer told them she was free to marry.

News of the Day In Wall Street

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—Plans for a merger of independent sheet steel makers are reported from Youngstown to be progressing. W. H. Davey of the Mansfield Sheet and Tin Plate Company, is expected to head the consolidation which will have initial capitalization of about $25,000,000.

Bookings of Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation for 1926 were somewhat in excess of 1925 when orders aggregated $15,929,703, says L. J. Belnap, president.

Smelters in the United States received 53,096 tons of lead ore in December, including 22,087 tons from Mexico, compared with a total of 52,023 tons in November, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports. The year's total was 621,072 tons against 595,664 in 1925.

Steel production in the Mahoning valley is now averaging 85 per cent of capacity against 75 per cent several weeks ago. Rolling mills are scheduled at 80 to 85 per cent. Forty-two of the 53 independent open hearth furnaces are melting and 113 of 127 sheet mills are scheduled for operation.

The preliminary statement of Louisiana Oil Refining Company of 1926 shows profit of $2,365,974 before federal taxes, against $992,179 in 1925.

January sales of Metropolitan Chain Stores were $654,514 against $567,415 in January, 1926, a gain of 15.35 per cent.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Another good radio evening Monday, with very few flaws. WBAL began by spreading over fully 100 meters, but soon subsided. There was a lot of code for a time. The WOC chimes were received perfectly at 6:45 and everything was fine until 8 o'clock, when there came a season of fading and every other ill to which radio is heir. This ended at 9 o'clock and thereafter everything was lovely. The wave jumpers took a recess and WOS came in with a concert program put up by the School of Fine Arts of the Missouri State University.

Another new pest made its appearance on about 350 meters. The name of it is WRVA and it is located at Wheeling, West Virginia. Its power Monday night is not known but must have been slight, as it threatened to use its "full power of 100 watts" the next time it messes up the air.

One of the best programs was that of the Willys-Overland from WJZ. Almost as good was the heater company program from KDKA.

Station WDBZ will be busy Wednesday evening. From 7 to 7:30 there will be a Boy Scout program and from 8 to 9 the concert preceding the Shriners' Ball will be broadcasted from the armory. This last is an experiment with orchestral music picked up under rather trying conditions, but it is hoped the new arrangement which Informant Belchert worked so successfully in broadcasting basketball games will be equal to the occasion.

Want Their Money Back from Lawyer

Sullivan County Real Estate Transaction Finds Its Way Into Supreme Court—Lawyer Says He Can't Pay Now.

Henry Goldstein and Sam Shapiro, two Sullivan county men, are asking to have Isadore Rothenberg, lawyer, pay back to them certain moneys which he accepted from them in 1923 with the understanding that he would deliver over to them certain real property in the county upon which he held a second mortgage and which was about to be sold under mortgage foreclosure. They appeared in special term of the Supreme court Saturday on an order to show cause why the money, amounting to $2,500, should not be paid to them by Mr. Rothenberg.

Mr. Rothenberg contends that he agreed to sell them the property for $7,500, he to buy it in at the foreclosure sale and deliver title to them by March 1, 1923, or else pay to them $400 as damages. Up to the present time he has not delivered title or repaid them the $2,500. He contends that he bid the property in on the first sale only to learn that his title was not good as certain conditions on the sale had not been complied with in regard to posting notice of the sale in the town where the property was located.

Purchased a Second Time.

The property was re-advertised and on the second sale he again purchased and took title. This, however, was too late to deliver title on the date agreed upon. However, before title was ready he alleges the two purchasers became involved in family troubles and could not agree and decided they did not want to purchase the place. Since title had not been delivered on the agreed date, they considered themselves free from the agreement to purchase. Now they ask for their $2,500 on the grounds that the title was not delivered on the agreed date and they also claim they are entitled to the damages.

Mr. Rothenberg after entering the agreement became involved financially and claims he is unable to pay the $2,500. The two men have a judgement against him and he alleges that he will pay as soon as he is able, but that he is financially unable to do so now.

Life Savings at Stake.

Judge Cunningham, who appeared for the two purchasers under the agreement, contended that Mr. Rothenberg took the $2,500 on agreement of sale and when the sale was not made and title delivered, it was his duty to return it to the two men. Mr. Goldstein claims he put his life savings in the hands of Mr. Rothenberg and that he is now destitute. Judge Cunningham said his client had come to him without a dime and without a job, with nothing to eat and no place to sleep. He secured a job for him. Judge Cunningham said Mr. Rothenberg at first promised to pay the money back to the two men but of late these promises have ceased. He told the court that he believed the retention of the money was more than a civil charge. Mr. Rothenberg appeared in person and contended that there was no relation of attorney and client between the two men and he and alleged that it was a business transaction.

Decision was reserved by Judge Hasbrouck.

Sport Briefs Of All Sorts

(By The Associated Press.)

Jake Schaefer and Willie Hoppe will meet in a 3,000 point billiard match at 18.1 balkline in New York for five days starting February 16, but with no title at stake. Schaefer yesterday waived his right to the 18.2 championship he won from Willie Hoppe last year when the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, sponsors of championship contests, protested that Hoppe's failure to defend his title for a decade before 1926 made his title claims invalid.

Wall Street commission houses today reported lively wagering on the outcome of the Jack Delaney-Jimmy Maloney heavyweight match to be staged in Madison Square Garden February 18. One firm reports a bet of $10,000 on Delaney to win at odds of 8 to 5. Wagering is said to exceed that on the Berlenbach-McTigue tilt when $250,000 was estimated to have changed hands.

While rowing squads of the east were still pulling away at machines in gymnasiums, the Navy crew, with hopes of a championship eight for entry into the Olympics, is working out daily on the waters of the Severn river at Annapolis. Navy has as a nucleus for 1927 five veterans of the crew that chased Washington home in the Poughkeepsie regatta last year.

Stribling Fails To Impress Fans

Georgian Wages a Defensive Campaign Against Eddie Huffman Which Results In Poor Exhibition In Heavy-Tournament at Garden.

New York, Feb. 8 (AP).—The figure of William L. (Young) Stribling, sturdy boxer from Georgia, cast but a pale shadow over Tex Rickard's heavyweight tournament today.

Although victorious in his ten round match with Eddie Huffman, Pacific coast light-heavyweight, at Madison Square Garden last night, the Georgian failed to impress local fans with his ability just as he failed in his 1926 fight with Paul Berlenbach for the 175 pound championship. Stribling mauled his way to victory over Huffman in a featureless match, marred by clinching, pounding, and acrobatic feats of the sawdust ring that appeared out of place—in the resined area.

Coming back to New York for the first time since Berlenbach's overwhelming victory, with a promising of unleashing all the power of his splendid physique, speed and boxing ability, Stribling from the start wages a defensive campaign that left the spectators yawning. There was little snap in Stribling's long left jab, little desire to force the milling, and apparently no inclination at all to smash his way to a decisive conquest.

Instead Stribling flitted about the ring slinging punches at the awkward Huffman from long range closing now and then to maul away at the Californian's ribs. Huffman plodded forward, rarely landing effectively, but continually forcing his way into a defense that he could never quite solve.

JEWELS OF LOVELY AMETHYST
Birth Stone for February and the Ideal Gift for Valentine's Day.
The wearing of the gem of the birth month is a custom honorably ancient—and particularly fortunate are those born in February, for the Amethyst, with its rich varying shades of lavender and purple is indeed one of the most beautiful of gems. Take a look at our Amethyst window today.
